MONDAY, MAY 29, 1876.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Robeson Investigation Nearly Closed.

WASHINGTON, May 28.

The members of the House committee on naval affairs say they have only two more witnesses to summon before they complete the testimony in their investigation, namely: Secretary Robeson and Admiral Porter. The Secretary has not yet, however, signified his intention to appear, as the committee has not complied with his request to conduct the examination with open doors.

PUNISHMENT OF THE SALONICA RIOTERS.

Official information is received here that the Turkish government is now engaged in punishing the persons engaged in the riot at Salonica, in which the French and German consuls were killed. The governor general of Salonica, Eshref Pasha and High Commissioner of the Sublime Porte Vahu Effendi have sent the following telegram, dated Salonica, May 27, to the Turkish minister at Washington:

Eleven additional sentences were rendered yesterday, two of which are for capital punishment, eight to forced labor for life, or limited; and one to three years imprisonment. The instigators of the riot shall be tried today.

The Turkish minister today received the following telegram, dated Salonica, May 28:

Yesterday, nine additional sentences were rendered, two of which were to capital punishment, five to forced labor, and two to three years imprisonment.

THE ARMY BILL.

Proposed Reductions and Consolidations.

The army bill came up in the House, yesterday. It reduces the cavalry regiments to eight and infantry to twenty, and provides that the reduction be made by merging enlisted men into other organizations. It repeals the law requiring that enlisted men of certain regiments be colored men. It abolishes the regimental organizations of artillery, and provides that they be known as the corps of artillery. Appointments to second lieutenants are confined to graduates of the military academy and non-commissioned officers. No officer of the army below the rank of major shall be promoted without having passed an examination before a board of three senior officers.

THE BELKNAP IMPEACHMENT.

The Senate has discovered a new constitutional question relative to jurisdiction in the impeachment. The question is whether a majority or a two thirds vote is necessary to decide the question of jurisdiction. It has been constantly maintained that a majority only was enough; but the point is now raised that two thirds are necessary. If it should be decided that a two thirds vote is necessary, there could be no doubt that the Senate would decline to hold jurisdiction. Senators express the opinion that if jurisdiction is taken the trial will be postponed until after the legislative business is finished. One Senator told an impeachment manager today that the Senate expected to keep the House here until October, and, in any event, long enough to show that the Democrats intend to cripple the government by their preposterous appropriation reduction.

THE KERR SCANDAL.

Developments in the Kerr scandal, as far as they are known at present, are that Green was appointed lieutenant through the influence of Kerr, and that six hundred dollars was paid by Green to Harney, a doorkeeper of the House, which Harney said was to go to Kerr. This is the testimony of Green who also swears that he has been approached repeatedly by lawyers in Kerr's interest and asked by them to make affidavit that he paid no money for the appointment. The question whether any money was paid by Harney to Kerr will be determined tomorrow, when both the Speaker and Harney will appear before the committee in open session. That question, however, is already settled in the minds of nearly everybody here, of whatever political party, and nothing short of the most unequivocal evidence will destroy the almost universal faith in Mr. Kerr's integrity.

THE ALASKA SEAL CONTRACT.

The sub-committee of ways and means has prepared a report on the testimony taken concerning the Alaska Commercial Company, and the manner in which it obtained a lease of the fur seal islands. They arrive at the conclusion that Secretary Boutwell's award of the lease was properly made and that it should be sustained. The report was prepared by Ferdinando Wood and Ben Hill, and signed also by Burchard, Kelley and Chapin. It exonerates the Treasury Department and the company in very emphatic terms from all charges of improper conduct, fraud or mismanagement.

FROM NEW YORK.

AN INQUISITION ON OLD TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, May 28.

Some fourteen hundred pounds of old telegrams, recently disposed of as waste paper by the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company, were yesterday obtained by a Congressional official to go to Washington for the use of the House naval committee. They are said to contain original telegrams of A. G. Cattell and George W. Robeson as individual and as secretary; Jay Cook, McCullough & Co., and individual members of that firm during the months of September and October, 1875.

THE EXPEDITION AGAINST THE INDIANS.

CHEYENNE, May 28.

An expedition leaves Fort Fetterman, in the morning, and will camp on Sage creek, fifteen miles out. Gen. Crook follows in the evening. Col. Royall will command the cavalry; Col. Chambers the infantry. All the supplies are now across the Platte. The Indians, in considerable number, are in the neighborhood of Fetterman, though keeping quiet. A man, named Murphy, came into Fetterman today from the Black Hills, and says the Indians are very troublesome in that vicinity. He reports having assisted in the burial of a number of persons, killed by them.

AN EDITOR KILLED.

CINCINNATI, May 28.

G. M. D. Bloss, one of the editors of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and widely known throughout the country, was instantly killed about 7:30 o'clock tonight, while walking on the track of the Little Miami Railroad near Branch Hill station, where he resided. The engineer of the train saw him on the track, and blew the whistle, but Mr. Bloss, apparently not hearing the signal, remained on the track. The air-brake was used ineffectually, and he was struck by the engine. His skull was crushed and both legs broken. The accident occurred near his house, and the body was recognized by railroad men, and was carried to his home.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PANIC ON THE LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

LONDON, May 27.

Today has been the worst Saturday known in the stock exchange for years. Everything sold indiscriminately, and there is hardly a stock in the entire list which is not lower, although the fall is less heavy than might have been expected in such a panicky market. The feeling at the close was slightly quieter, but still very gloomy. Continental bourses have not participated in the panic, although all report weakness and decline in the international stocks, as a result of the fall here.

England's Grip upon Another American Forger.

The time for which Charles Brent, the Louisville forger, was committed expires on Monday, but it is not probable that any step will be taken looking to his release. His trial will most likely await the decision of the Winslow case.

THE WAR CLOUD.

LONDON, May 29.

The Times says since Friday afternoon insurances at Lloyd's have been made to cover war risks.

Military and Naval Activity in England.

The Standard says one hundred tons of gunpowder and a million cartridges have just been dispatched from Woolwich to Gibraltar, Malta and the Mediterranean fleet. This is quite independent of the ordinary supply. It was stated in Portsmouth, Saturday, that all available workmen were to be placed at work on ships which are nearest to a sea-going condition. The turretship Thunderer is understood to be the first whose completion will be thus pushed forward.

LARGE FIRE IN PROVIDENCE.

PROVIDENCE, May 29.

The livery stable of Freeman A. Francis, on Pine and Potter streets was burned just before midnight last night. The loss will reach $72,000. Insured $32,000 on stock and $9000 on barn. Ten hacks and about sixty horses were burned.

MOVEMENT OF UNITED STATES TROOPS.

OMAHA, May 28.

Company H, Twenty-third regiment, under Captain Eskridge, left here this morning for Fort Laramie, and from there they will go direct to Custer City, where they have been ordered to protect miners against the redskins.

Notice Extraordinary.

THE UNDERSIGNED returns thanks to his many customers for their patronage in the past and hopes for a continuance of their favors in the future, pledging himself in return to give them just as good (if not a little better) work in all branches of his business entrusted to his care.

THE DAY.

England has been called upon by the great powers to submit a plan for the pacification of Turkey.

Nearly one thousand amendments have been made to the legislative appropriation bill by the Senate appropriation committee.

In swearing in Doorkeeper Patterson, Speaker Kerr administered the iron-clad oath, and also obliged him to keep the secrets of the House.

The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad will today reduce its passenger rates to the West. The Erie road has also made further reductions in its rates.

Secretary Robeson has replied to the recent letter of the House naval committee, and renews his demand for a public hearing in relation to matters affecting his department.

The obsequies of the late Baron de Palm were celebrated in New York yesterday according to the ancient Egyptian custom. The body is to be cremated as soon as permission can be obtained.

Two hotels, six or eight stores and about twenty dwelling-houses were destroyed by fire in Midland, Michigan, yesterday afternoon, occasioning a loss of $150,000. On Saturday night a $115,000 fire occurred in the Anchor flouring mill at St. Louis. The livery stable of Freeman & Francis in Providence was burned at midnight last night Seventy horses perished in the flames. The loss of property will aggregate $72,000.

The New York World has been writing up Gen. Hancock as a Presidential candidate, and a correspondent writes to the World that no such half-and-half man can be elected. The writer, who declares himself a Jeffersonian states-rights Democrat, and signs himself "Bourbon," regards Hancock's connection with the execution of Mrs. Surratt sufficient reason why he should not be elected. Upon this another correspondent comes to Hancock's defence, and argues that his connection was only that of an army officer who had to obey orders unquestioningly. The World and its correspondents need give themselves no uneasiness. Secessionists who call themselves "Jeffersonian states-rights Democrats," and rebels at heart who never expressed or felt a regret for the death of Mr. Lincoln but never cease howling that Mrs. Surratt's execution was a murder, will not rule this country again. The majority of them were killed by the federal armies and there are not enough of them left to control an election. These fossilized traitors who can never wail enough over Mrs. Surratt's execution are the same fellows that accuse Republicans of harping on dead issues and keeping alive the memories of the war. In the course of time the "Jeffersonian states-rights Democrats" who weren't killed in war will die off, and then the country will experience a period of peace, prosperity, progress and patriotism.

NEW BOOKS.

ACHSAH: A New England Life Study. By the Rev. Peter Pennot. Boston, Lee & Shepard: Newport, Charles E. Hammett, Jr.

This novel contains some good character drawing, and much dramatic force. It is sufficiently true to nature to justify its title of a New England life study. But it is a study of the worst side of New England life, and the side that, judged by its fruits, is of the least consequence. The Deacon Sternes are only too prominent in New England, but if they constituted a numerous or influential class New England could not be as public spirited, generous and patriotic as it undoubtedly is.

The Rev. Peter Pennot, whoever he may be, is unfortunately much better able to draw bad characters than good ones. Deacon Sterne and Aunt Vashy, and Iphigenia Lake, the maiden lady of uncertain years who writes anonymous letters and "sets her cap" for the minister are all tolerably good portraits. Their various meannesses are somewhat exaggerated, but not improperly so. They are more like their originals than Dickens's characters are. Like the ancient actors, the people in a novel must be mounted on rather high-heeled boots in order to produce a good effect. But it was a mistake to make the deacon lie. There are a plenty of New Englanders, deacons and otherwise, who work their wives to death, because they think they can't afford to hire help, who tyrannize over their children, and who are mean and full of cant in their intercourse with the world, but they don't lie. Their statements must often be taken with a grain of salt, but they are not falsehoods. In this connection it may also be said that the author should not have introduced an assassination and a suicide into a study of New England life. People in New England very rarely die with their boots on.

Achsah is a very good girl, but only a sort of lay figure. There is little individuality about her. Owen Hood, her lover, is a very perfect young man, and a genius, we are told, but we have only the author's word for this, and his readiness to resign Achsah to the Rev. Mortimer Moore, hardly betokens genius on his part. The best character in the book is Aunt Emily Sterne, beneath whose rough exterior there are warm sympathies and a true woman's heart.

The book is entertaining and has many merits. It would have had more of them if the author's study of New England life had been broader, and as appreciative of the lights as of the shadows of New England life.

CENTENNIAL COLLECTION OF NATIONAL SONGS: Boston, Oliver Ditson & Co., Newport, John Rogers.

This is just what the title indicates, a collection of the representative songs of all nations and is particularly appropriate to the centennial year. It is gotten up in convenient size and shape, in board covers, and the print is excellent. The first piece, as is proper, is Keller's grand American Hymn and then follow the rest of our national songs, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean," "Our Flag is There," "Star-spangled Banner," "Hail Columbia" and "Yankee Doodle." England has "God save the Queen," "Rule Britannia" and "The Roast Beef of Old England" which has come down from 1700. Germany has her share in the "Watch on the Rhine," and Reichardt's "Where is the German Fatherland," and France the "Marseilles Hymn" and "Departure for Syria." Ireland has "St. Patrick's Day" and "Wearing of the Green" and Scotland follows with "Bruce's Address" and "The Campbells are Comin'." Then there is the Russian National Hymn, Austrian National Song, Garibaldi Hymn, Swedish and Spanish national hymns, which speak for themselves, "King Christian," (Danish) and "March of the Men of Harlech," (Welsh.) There are various explanatory notes and the whole closes with an American hymn "To Thee, O Country" by Julius Eichberg of the Boston conservatory.

GOOD NEWS, or songs and tunes for Sunday schools, Christian associations, etc., edited by R. M. McIntosh. Boston, Oliver Ditson & Co., Newport, John Rogers.

This is not only edited by Mr. McIntosh but it would seem that most of the music is composed by him, though there are a few pieces by Dr. A. Brooks Everett, Emilius Laroche and others. There are two or three redeeming features but most of it is on an average with the tide of Sunday school music which is flooding the country. Sabbath school singing books are ground out altogether too fast to be above mediocrity, and it is fortunate for us if they reach that standard.

INAUGURAL PROGRAMME.

In the afternoon, when the election of general officers of state shall have been completed and the proclamation thereof made from the balcony of the State House, a salute in honor of the same will be fired under the direction of the Newport Artillery, and immediately afterwards, upon the adjournment of the two houses of assembly, a procession in the order of the morning, will be formed in front of the state house, and His Excellency the Governor and other general officers of state together with the members of assembly will be escorted down the Parade to Thames street, through Thames to Pelham, up Pelham street to the Aquidneck House, when an artillery salute in honor of the governor will be fired from Touro Park by the Newport Artillery, after which the escort will be dismissed.

THE POSTAGE STAMP GIRL.—For the information of a large number of our correspondents who have manifested great interest in the attempt of a Sunday-school girl of this city to collect one million of cancelled postage stamps before the first of July, we are able to say that their kindly offered assistance is not needed. The little girl is certain to collect a great many more than the required number of stamps by the time specified, and thus to secure her promised annuity. It may be of interest to persons who regard it as a well-nigh impossible task to collect a million of defaced postage stamps within a few weeks to know that we have had stamps to the number of nearly a million offered to us within less than a week for this little girl—one correspondent alone offering to give her six hundred thousand at once, and a well-known business firm of this city promising from two thousand to three thousand a week for any length of time.—[New York Evening Post.

She is not leaking more than usual. Her owners arrived from Boston on Saturday. It will take two weeks to repair her.

—The owners of the schooner G. W. May, now at Long Wharf, and recently ashore on Block Island, are in town. They have not as yet refused to pay $2000, the price asked by the wreckers for getting her off, but they profest against the charge and a compromise will probably be effected.

—Barnum's great show will exhibit in this city on Saturday June 10th on the lot at corner of Catherine street and Rhode Island avenue. We are assured that the show is not to be divided but that the entire establishment will be here. As the tent holds comfortably ten thousand people it is suggested that the police and fire department be left to guard the city and that the entire population go to "see the elephant.

CONANICUT PARK has proved a very pleasant and convenient Summer home for Providence families, several of whom spent last season there. All the steamers on the bay touch at its wharf, and gentlemen can attend to business in town if necessary. The hotel is exceedingly well kept, and there is always a sea breeze. No excursions are allowed, and it is, therefore, a desirable, quiet place for children. Some new cottages have been built the past Winter, and many improvements made, which add to the attractiveness of the place. Best of all, prices are such that even the poorest of us may take a rest there during the dog days.—[Providence Press.

BIDS FOR CITY CONTRACTS.

The bids for building the new school house were opened Saturday evening and were as follows:—Nathan Barker, $13,987, James Rudolph, $14,500, A. H. Kaull, $14,410.50, P. G. Case & Co., $16,500 and William Wilbur $16,400. As the land cost about $6000 the committee have only $12,000 to spend on the building. The committee will advise the city council to appropriate $2000 more and accept Barker's bid.

For work on Gravelly point the following bids were received:—For dredging—Thomas Braynard, of Albany, 31 cents per cubic yard; Mr. Flannery, now doing government dredging here, 23 cents per cubic yard; John Beattie, of Stony Brook, 20 cents per cubic yard. For walling—Thomas Braynard, $5 15 per cubic yard; Silas D. Deblois, $5 87; F. A. Ingerson, New London, $4 60; Balloa & Sylvester, New London, $4 50 and John Beattie, $4 50. The committee will recommend that the contracts for dredging and walling be given to Beattie. He will probably furnish the stone and employ Waters to lay them, and get Flannery to do the dredging.

containing city government, officers of the army and navy, members of the press, the postmaster, collector of the port, commissary general of the state, clergy, Joshua Stacy and George Howland, veterans of 1812, and members of the school committee.

The procession marched from Bellevue avenue by way of Bowery and Young streets to Thames street, and thence by Warner street to the cemetery. Flags at half mast were displayed at the club house, custom house postoffice and signal station, at the torpedo station and Fort Adams, the shipping in the harbor, the DAILY NEWS office, J. M. K. Southwick's, Carl's, Sturm's, the the Orchestron, and a large flag was displayed on Bull street.

The platform in the cemetery was in the usual place. The First artillery band was placed immediately in front of it. Behind the band were the G. A. R. and the Veterans, and behind these the foot soldiers from Fort Adams, who carried no arms except their bayonets. To the right of the platform were the Artillery Veteran Association, the Light Infantry, and the Burnside Guards. On the left of the platform, forming the right wing of the line, was the Newport band and the Newport Artillery. The United States light battery was at some little distance from the stand, and fired the guns during the decoration of the graves.

On the platform were Gen. Jackson, Col. Frank, Major Eckerson, Major Eaken and Lieut. Dillenback, U. S. A., Capt. Breeze, Surgeon Winslow, and Ensign Case, U. S. N., Gen. Shepherd, Gen. Candy, the Hon. William D. Cozzens; Postmaster Coggeshall, Collector Macy, Col. Higginson, Dr. Gilpin of Halifax, who used to be in Newport 42 years ago, the color guards of the several military companies, and the Rev. Messrs. Taylor, Magill, Whitcher, Kettell, J. Pratt, Kimball, Van Horne, Shreeves and Jeter, Mr. Bedlow, Senator Drake, members of the city council, and many other gentlemen.

At the cemetery the exercises opened with a dirge by the First artillery band. This was followed by prayer by the Rev. J. P. Taylor, chaplain of the day, after which the Newport band played a dirge. George C. Williams of the G. A. R. then read the role of honor comprising 152 names. Commander Hunter then introduced Col. E. H. Rhodes, orator of the day.

Col. Rhodes introduced his address by allusions to the antiquity of the custom of floral decorations of graves, and the significance to us of flowers as emblems of the resurrection and of purity and pledges of the Creator's love. These flowers tell of a mother's love and a father's joy in the life just coming to manhood, and of the sorrow and grief that even now fills the heart as they wait for the coming of him who shall come no more.

It is given unto some to live for the good of mankind, unto others to die that their fellow men might inherit a blessing. And these men whose graves surrounded us here died not for fame, not for glory, but that you and I might enjoying the blessings of free institutions inherited from our fathers.

It is thought by some of our people that the observance of Decoration day ought to be abandoned, and that we should forgive and forget the past. The Union soldier is willing to forgive, but he can never forget either the war, or the causes that led to the war. The safety of this country depends upon the fostering care given to the spirit of patriotism. The soldier does not claim all the zeal for our national welfare but he does maintain that the memory of our martyred comrades should be preserved as an example of unselfish devotion to country and duty. These graves are the Mecca of the free and the young should be taught to hold themselves ready to give their lives for freedom.

Bring the children to these green mounds, and tell them of deeds of valor done, and of perils and dangers endured and of sacrifices made for the sake of the country. Instil into their minds the lessons of today and our labors will not have been in vain.

If the result of the war were only to establish a union distasteful to a large minority, then were the labors of our solders in vain. But God had the country's welfare in view when he allowed the storm to break over our heads. As a nation we had become proud and arrogant, and trampled on the rights of others. But the war elevated our standard of manhood, and gave us grander ideas of liberty and equality, apart from the liberation of the slaves, the most sublime achievement of the age.

The war gave the people of the North higher and nobler views of the duty which man owes to man, and liberated the tongues and pens of men who had not been allowed to write as their consciences prompted them. The call to arms found the North unprepared, but it was promptly responded to. They seized arms to which they were unused, they forgot all social distinctions, political opinions and religious creeds, and braved all kinds of danger in their country's service.

The Union soldiers distinguished themselves not only on the battlefield, but by the quickness and quietness with which they disbanded, and though long freed from the restraints of civil life the mustering out of armies occasioned no turbulence, and the soldiers became citizens as easily as they had ceased to be citizens. We cannot sufficiently admire these men when we contrast the close of the rebellion with the ends of foreign wars, and we feel satisfied that the welfare of the nation is in safe hands as long as the survivors of the Union armies are spared to us.

This day teaches lessons to us all. It teaches the young to love free institutions and to admire deeds of patriotism. It quickens our attachment to the flag, the love for which is the result of a deep conviction that it represents the glory of the nation. And this reverence for the Union flag was found in the late war even among those who fought against it.

Let us reverence the flag. Its broad folds have protected us for a century, and have never been dishonored on land or sea. Teach our children to read in its bright stars that increase and unity of states that make us a nation, and in its stripes the power that we possess to command the respect of all mankind.

We must be mindful of the living as well as of the dead. We must deal generously with the survivors of the war, many of them poor and crippled, and we should not forget the homes made desolate by the rebellion. Remember the widows and orphans made by the war. To assist in this sacred duty is the mission of the society under whose direction we perform these solemn services today.

The Grand Army was born on the field of battle. It teaches us to regard every soldier as a brother. It seeks out the needy and helps those in distress. Of its loyalty there is no question. It is its pride that no man may enter it upon whom the stain of treason rests. While cherishing the kindest feelings toward its late enemies it does not propose to exalt treason to the height of loyalty, or to degrade loyalty to the depth of treason.

Such is the position of the Grand Army. Cherish and protect it as something that can remain but a day, for its existence is limited and soon the last comrade will be mustered from the ranks here below into the glorious army above.

At the conclusion of the oration a selection was played by the First Artillery band after which the Grand Army broke up into nine detachments and laid flowers on the graves of soldiers which the United States light battery fired the usual salute. When this duty was discharged the procession returned to Washington Square and there broke up.

This afternoon the graves at Fort Adams, on Conanicut and at Dutch Island were decorated in accordance with arrangements already made and announced, the Grand Army going to Fort Adams about two o'clock.

Memorial services will be held in the Opera House this evening at 7½ o'clock.

The procession this morning was the largest and the most imposing one that there has ever been here on Decoration day. This was largely owing to Gen. Vogdes's courtesy in permitting the presence of United States troops.

"I wouldn't go to Newport if I were you," said Mrs. Veneering to a friend. "And why not?" asked the friend. "Because," answered Mrs. Veneering, "people there don't wear rings outside their gloves: they don't eat mashed potatoes with a knife, and none of them have lace window curtains equal to mine."—[New York Mail.

It has not yet been decided where the annual ball of the New York Yacht Club will be held this season, but in all probability it will be at Newport. New London has been spoken of, but there seems to be a prejudice against that place among yachtsmen, though for what reason it is difficult to determine.

COLE—In this city, 28th inst., at the residence of her brother-in-law, J. P. Cotton, Maggie B. Cole.

Shattered Constitutions Rebuilt.

In the use of a wholesome invigorant lies the only hope of rebuilding a shattered constitution. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are not only an eminently wholesome tonic, but they rectify with most satisfactory promptitude derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels which are incompatible with a return of health and strength. When the system is enfeebled by disease, by the wear and tear of business life, by continuous mental anxiety, by the exhaustion consequent upon late hours and fast living, by over-work and by sedentary habits, the Bitters are the most reliable medicinal agent for imparting permanent vigor to the debilitated frame. The new stock of vitality which they infuse into broken down physique, and the orderly action which they establish among the organs of digestion, secretion and evacuation, moreover, constitute its best safeguard against malarial disease.

Fire Insurance should be effected in companies of known responsibility, that will not fail at the first great fire in which they have large risks. It is of still more importance that the Safes, which are to be an insurance for books and papers, should be of a make that has been thoroughly proven and that may be depended upon for the most severe tests. Herring's Patent Safes have been tried in almost every fire, of any extent, occurring for years, and they have always proven "True to their trust." Seven of them were subjected to the great Broadway fire, in New York, Feb. 8th, 1876, preserving their valuable contents. Several of these Safes were so deeply buried beneath the ruins that they were not got out until the third or fourth day after the fire. When Smedker, Waters & Boynton's Safe was finally reached, 60 hours after the fire started, the smouldering debris by which the Safe was surrounded, burst into flame, yet every book and paper it contained was taken out in splendid condition. G. E. Shortridge & Co.'s Safe was subjected to a severe trial, but the contents were found uninjured. The large stock of boots and shoes in cases, in the warehouse of Powers, Gaston & Co., made a most intense heat, but their Safe preserved all its contents.

TO ALL, particularly invalids, Spring is a trying season. Indications of sickness should at once be attended to. Fatal diseases may be caused by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and the system to remain in a disordered condition, until the disorder has time to develop itself. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, is an old and truthful saying. Therefore, we advise all who are troubled with the complaints now very prevalent—headache, indigestion, disordered liver, want of appetite, nausea, or feverish skin, to take, without delay, Schenck's Mandrake Pills. We know of no remedy so harmless and decisive in its action. It at once strikes at the root of the disease and produces a healthy tone to the system. People never need suffer from any disease arising from a disordered condition of the liver if they would take this excellent medicine when they feel the first indications of the malady. Families leaving home for the Summer months should take three or four boxes of these pills with them. They have an almost instantaneous effect. They will relieve the patient of headache in one or two hours, and will rapidly cleanse the liver of surrounding bile, and will effectually prevent a bilious attack. They are sold by all druggists.

THOMSON'S POMADE OPTIME, for dressing the hair.—This fine pomade merits special attention. Purely vegetable, its effect is to soften and refine coarse dry hair, imparting to it gloss and beauty. Unlike many preparations for the hair, it cannot injure, but is highly beneficial, equally so, to the rich golden hued tresses of youth, the darker shades of middle life, or the silver streaked locks of age. 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by druggists.

PRACTICE ECONOMY.—Renovate your soiled gloves thoroughly and quickly, with JOUVENS' INODOROUS KID GLOVE CLEANER. 25 cents per bottle. Sold by druggists.

DAGHISTAN RUGS.

THE DAGHISTAN RUG is an unique addition to our resources for tasteful and recherche furnishing of interiors. This fabric is made by hand and with infinite care and labor in the choice of designs and colors. Each production has an individuality of its own, being usually the work of home industry for home use, and the pattern is not repeated. It is for the floor what the original Cashmere shawl is for the person, and is correspondingly prized above the more modern machine work. They are the product of a small territory near the Caspian Sea and are quite distinct from the ordinary Turkish rug. They are made of Angora wool, which by use acquires a peculiar satin sheen. The designs are compact, clear-cut, many-colored, giving to the whole a peculiarly rich, soft and brilliant effect. The patterns comprise many symbolical signs and characters which, to lovers of Oriental souvenirs, will have a singular interest. For Summer apartments, and especially for cottage use at Newport and similar retreats, the article is peculiarly appropriate. A small lot of the rugs have found their way to New York, and have been thrown in a heap in a little office down town. If the virtuoso will make the necessary exploration, he will find the treasure trove with Mr. F. B. Nichols, 71 William street, near Liberty.—[Home Journal, New York, May 17. my26

MONDAY, MAY 29, 1876.

DECORATION DAY.

BY MAJOR THEODORE J. ECKERSON, U. S. A.

Thy deck with flowers thy grave, my noble boy,
On this the holiest day of all the year;
My grateful heart leaps with a thrill of joy
That bids me strive to check the rising tear.

This is my hour of pride, my warrior son!
I give thy grave up to thy country's care—
To those who, ere their mournful task is done,
Will strew that mound with flowers all sweet and rare.

My day of pride! A mother's heart beats high
To know thou'rt numbered with that gallant band
Who sought the glorious privilege to die
With arms and face to foe, for our dear land!

Tears I have shed for thee, my soldier child,
Nor ceased my weeping since that parting day
When the closed patriot phalanx onward filed
To meet its foe, and crush his proud array.

But, for today, no weeping! Not one tear
Shall down this pale and wasted cheek be borne!
A nation decks thy grave, and thousands here
Assemble, o'er the gallant dead to mourn.

Yes, let that nation weep! Enough for me,
Today, that thou art of the honored ones—
To know that thus, for centuries yet to be,
The nation's heart will throb for these lost sons!

Enough for me to know that our great chief,
Who brought his hosts victorious from the fray,
Joins with a full heart in the signs of grief—
These honors to our Union dead today.

And so, today, no tears! But, oh, my brave!
Tomorrow, when the mournful pageant 's o'er,
Shall I not visit thy untimely grave,
Dear boy, and wet it with my tears once more?

Yes, and my harrowing grief may then have vent,
Unshared, unnoticed by today's sad crowd—
And a 'reft mother's ache, now bravely pent,
May fill the air with grief-tones long and loud.

Till then, farewell, my lost, my warrior son!
Till then I leave thy grave thy country's care—
And generous hands will, ere the day is done,
Bedeck that mound with flowers all sweet and rare.

AGRICULTURAL.

COMMON SENSE IN PLOUGHING.

The editor of the Practical Farmer has the following common-sense remarks on the above subject: "Teams drawing loads on the roads get a breathing spell on the descending ground, while in ploughing the draught is the same from morning till night. There is a certain number of pounds that a team can draw day after day and not worry them, but if more be added, even as little as fifteen or twenty pounds, they walk unsteadily, fret and soon tire. No amount of feeding will keep them in condition. I have many ploughs in use on which it had been an easy matter to have increased the draught twenty five pounds, and if men had been drawing them instead of horses, it would have been done. It must be plain to the farmer that every pound taken off from the draught of his plough is so much gained for his horses. It may be done in this way: For any soil, except sand or gravel, use a steel plough. Their cost is but little more and the draught enough less to pay the difference in ploughing twenty acres. In ploughing sod the colter does a great deal of the work and should be kept sharp by forging at the blacksmith's and grinding every day if necessary. Of course it will wear out sooner, but new colters are cheaper than new teams. Set the colter in line with the plough, the edge square in front, with an angle of forty-five degrees from the point where it is attached to the beam. When the share gets worn out it is poor economy to use it any longer. Let the traces be as short as it is possible or as will allow the horses to walk without lifting their heels against the whippletrees, and have just pressure enough on the wheels on the ground to make the plough run steady. If the handles crowd continually one way, the draught is not right, and if the plough is a good one it can be easily remedied at the clevis. To prevent the horses stepping over the traces in turning, fasten the weight of about three fourths of a pound on the outside of each single tree—that is, on the right end when you turn to the left, and vice versa. Every farmer knows that horses are susceptible to kindness, and equally so to unkindness. I have seen horses that were working steadily made reeking with sweat in a short time by a sharp word or a jerk on the bit. Let your horses do their work as you do yours, as easily as possible and be as willing to overlook their mistakes as you would the mistakes of human beings."

POTATOES—LEVEL CULTURE.

One of the recent results of the inquisitive tendency of agriculture is experiment in the level culture of potatoes. We believe this subject deserves more attention than it has received. The question which is preferable, level or ridge culture? might be added to the list of queries proposed for experimental answers by farmers' clubs. There are many objections to the present method of culture, though it cannot be denied that it has yielded abundant harvest. The best known method of ridge or hill culture is as follows: Select a strong loamy soil which has been in cultivation at least one year; fertilize thoroughly, if in the hill, mingle the manure with the soil; mark in rows three feet apart; drop the seed in drills eighteen inches apart; hoe twice, the second time forming a continuous ridge. This method will yield in favorable years at least 250 bushels per acre. This, and planting in hills three feet apart each way, are the methods practised by nine-tenths of our farmers. But there seem to be objections to them. All rain and moisture must necessarily soak quickly through the ridge, furnishing but temporary nutriment. The heat of the drought soon dries out the ridge and renders its soil lifeless. We have observed that the ridges yield more potatoes when they are shaded somewhat by weeds, and while a weedy potato patch betokens a slovenly farmer, there are many reasons for the belief that weeds protect the potato ridge in seasons of drought. The potatoes are also liable to exude from the hill and to be exposed to the sun, an exposure which ruins them. The natural location of any plant for growth is below the level of the ground, and this is especially true of the tuber. A potato hill built above the level of the ground is not the natural receptacle of the seed. Nevertheless copious and profitable crops have thus been produced. The chief question is, Can they not be increased? There have been no extended experiments in level culture. The chief objection urged against it is the difficulty of digging. The seed must be planted at a depth of at least six inches, and it is not possible to dig the crop with the ordinary "hook" so conveniently as when it grows in hills. But there is no reason why the deep lying tubers should not be ploughed out or otherwise brought to the surface by machinery. We believe this subject deserves a portion of the attention of potato growers. It is novel to many of them; and a corner of the field devoted to a test might yield results which would be valuable.—Utica Herald.

Sewing Machines.

THE NEW
REMINGTON
Sewing Machine
STILL STANDS
UNRIVALLED.

All competent judges acknowledge it to be the simplest, the easiest, the quietest and the most easily handled of any shuttle machine now in market. It will sew with perfect stitch, from the finest muslin to the heaviest and firmest beaver cloth, or leather, without change of stitch, needle, thread or tension. Its percentage of increase of sales in 1874 was 90% per cent and 67¼ per cent, more than any other machine. In 1875 its ratio of increase was still greater, being 100 per cent. More than fifteen thousand other machines of first-class make have already been exchanged for it.

No person wishing a sewing machine can do themselves justice, whatever their prejudice, if they fail to examine the New Remington before purchasing. Five dollars a month will buy you a REMINGTON at 35 BROADWAY.

PATENT
PARABOLA

SPECTACLES.

The advantages of the Parabola Glasses over the old form of Spectacles, are a greater density of material, perfect surfaces, and Parabolic form. These qualities, united, form the most perfect of lenses. In the perfect transmission of light, joined to their peculiar form the wearer of the Parabola Spectacles is enabled to prosecute the most trying labors of the eye without those distressing results which follow the use of all other glasses. A peculiar and important feature in these Spectacles is witnessed in cases where young persons have been obliged to resort to the use of glasses, from some physical debility having affected temporarily their vision. In such cases the eye soon regains its healthy powers, and the glasses can be laid aside without having had the least tendency to affect the eyes so as to demand their continuous use.

[From Dr. George McClellan, Philadelphia.]

I have recommended the "Parabola Spectacles" to several of my patients, and have received from most of them warm encomiums upon the article. They assert that these glasses do not fatigue the eyes by long use, as is apt to be the case with the double convex Spectacles, while the command of the eyes over the object of vision is much greater. This corresponds with the opinion any optician would form from his knowledge of the principles upon which those glasses are adjusted—so as to converge the rays coming from different quarters to the same focal distance. The eyes can be turned to a considerable extent, therefore, under these glasses, without involving the necessity of moving the head.

COR-CORAN'S IMPROVED WIND: MILL!

ATTENTION is invited to this improved mill, as surpassing all others in Simplicity, Efficiency, Symmetry and Economy. Recent improvements have reduced the friction joints from 60 to only 4, and being provided with patent lubricating cups, it may run thirty days by once oiling. It may be cheaply mounted, (the smaller mill costing only $85.00), or by an artistic tower it may be set to become an ornament as well as an invaluable convenience at every suburban residence. I would be pleased to attend those in want, or refer to engineer at Torpedo Station, whose practical experience will enable him to explain its merits more fully.

"The greatest Novel since Uncle Tom's Cabin!" says the Boston Globe, of
THE NEW AMERICAN STORY
ACHSAH:
A New England Life-Study.
By Rev. PETER PENNOT, 12mo, cloth..........$1.50.
The manly, whole-souled, and devoted young clergyman is no fancy sketch; Deacon Sterne, the sanctimonious hypocrite; the plain talking old maid sister; the sneaking, spying aunt, are life-like and real, while the heroine, Achsah, is a lovely character, with whom the reader is in deep sympathy. These, with the various other characters of the story, are so combined as to produce a book full of interest from beginning to end.
